Booking Tickets

Many events sold out in last year's festival so we ask that you book in advance to avoid disappointment.

Online: www.belfastchildrensfestival.com

Telephone: 028 9031 2264

In person: Festival Box Office, 15 Church St
(Facing Belfast Cathedral)

Family Ticket: For most shows a family ticket is available. This admits 1 adult and 3 children, or 2 adults and 2 children.

Schools and Groups

Tickets for schools are £3 for workshops and £5 for performances. For all group bookings, every eleventh ticket is free. Schools and groups can get a further 10% discount by paying for their tickets before 25 April.

General Information

All information is correct at time of going to print. The management of Young at Art reserve the right to change or cancel events and refuse admission.

Festival Etiquette

We welcome families of all shapes and sizes. However for everyone's enjoyment and safety we ask that you observe the age guidelines for each event. Babes in arms (under 1s) are admitted free to all events (except the Baby Rave). Again parents are asked to respect the enjoyment of others attending the same event.

We also ask that children are accompanied by an adult to every event, with the exception of workshops for children aged 7 years and over.

If you are in any doubt about whether an event is suitable for a particular child, please call us on: 028 9031 2264.

Access

This brochure is available as a pdf download from www.belfastchildrensfestival.com for enhanced viewing. Unfortunately some venues have limited access. Please check when making your booking. We will endeavour to accommodate any special requirements.

Welcome

Young at Art is back with the new look Belfast Children's Festival. It's still the same high quality programme for children, celebrating their creativity and stimulating their senses with theatre, music, puppetry, literature and visual arts.

We asked you last year to tell us ways to make the festival better and this year we're responding to your suggestions. You asked for more – the 2005 festival is bigger than ever. You asked for more activities for the very young – we've got literature events, workshops and the Baby Rave. You asked for more events outside school/work hours – we have evening and weekend events galore. We also have one-day packages for schools, many free events and the return of the Festival in a Day at the Waterfront Hall. Themed on the five senses – hearing, sight, taste, touch and smell – we've looked for events that stimulate your eyes, ears and minds, adding a sense of humour.

So enjoy the festival and don't forget to tell us what you think.

Finally, a big thank you to everyone involved in the festival, especially our volunteers!

The Little Mermaid

A play of The Little Mermaid in a swimming pool

This spectacular re-telling of the well-loved story of The Little Mermaid marks the 200th anniversary of author Hans Christian Andersen. Water puppets, music, lighting and real life mermaids bring the classic tale to life in Northern Ireland's first ever theatre production in a swimming pool.

This performance is non verbal and suitable for children of all abilities.

Viennese Vegetable Orchestra

Carrot-flutes and pumpkin-drums make a musical soup!

This unique orchestra has to be seen and heard to be believed. Ten musicians use a variety of vegetables and the odd kitchen utensil to create a strange and wonderful soundscape. At the end of the performance, all the instruments are cooked up into a big soup for the audience to share. This is just the second UK appearance by the Viennese Vegetable Orchestra; don't miss this rare opportunity to sample a musical phenomenon!

Sensor Shacks

Senses are shaken and stirred in the Sensor Shacks

Something smells fishy about Lucy Turner's funky floral bouquets; will you come up smelling of roses... or bananas? See eye to eye with Colin McGookin's willow sculptures. Katie Blue's banquet looks incredible but is it edible? Get musical with the fusion and confusion of Stevie Noonan's orchestral junk sculpture. Stand still, shut your eyes and be touched by Angela Ginn's moving work. Each of these five outdoor shacks offers a unique experience to confuse and amuse the senses.

No Monkey Business

Monkey magic with puppets
in the park

Three monkeys pass the time in their cages in the City Zoo. One can't see very well, one can't hear very well and the third doesn't say much. One by one they're taken away to join the circus, until they suspect that something funny is going on... The Little Pavilion is transformed into a monkey house for this slapstick puppet show from Kernal Trapps, festival favourites from the last two years.

Such is Nature

An owl beguiles a pussycat

A blend of music, dance and theatre tells a charming story. An owl named Wilde, who spends endless nights alone composing stories in a rotten old tree, is visited by the Midnight Cat. Urged to tell a story Wilde refuses, but when the cat goes to leave the owl agrees. And so the cat stays for a midnight tale, and so Wilde begins...

'Picture if you can some sad little creature who has never known happiness and whose glum and gloomy face has never known a smile...'

About Young At Art

The Belfast Children's Festival is run by Young at Art, an organisation committed to promoting creativity and enjoyment of the arts among children and young people. Since its beginnings in 1998, the festival has established a reputation for artistic excellence and adventurous programming.

Through a vibrant year-round outreach programme, Young at Art reaches children and young people in schools and community groups all over Northern Ireland.

Young at Art is a charity and fundraises 85% of its costs from foundations, sponsors and public bodies.

Getting Involved

If you are an artist, arts or youth organisation with suggestions for future Festival and outreach projects, please contact or send information for consideration to the Director, Ali FitzGibbon, at ali@youngatart.co.uk.

If you would like to volunteer at the Belfast Children's Festival, and benefit from free training opportunities and on-the-job experience, please contact the Administrator, Louise O'Neil, at louise@youngatart.co.uk

If you are interested in becoming a Young at Art Ambassador to help distribute print, promote the festival, and give feedback, please contact the Audience Development Officer, Alice Jackson, at alice@youngatart.co.uk.

Free Mailing List

If you would like to receive information about Young at Art events, please join our free mailing list by telephoning or emailing us with your name, children's names and dates of birth, address and telephone number.

Supporting Young at Art

If you or your business would like to make a donation to the festival, sponsor an event or provide in-kind support, please contact the Administrator, Louise O'Neil.
